

 JAPAN FOUNDATION presents
1-877-200-864

On the Veranda

Space Between Man and Nature

This rare and exiting event will introduce audiences to the mystique behind the traditional Japanese Garden.

In this one time only event Japanese Garden experts, landscape architect Shiro Nakane and professor Makoto Suzuki, will bring their years of application and training to the United States to lead an in-depth and fascinating lecture on the Japanese Garden.

Los Angeles, CA
Thursday
March 26, 2009, 2pm
Japanese American Cultural and Community Center

Long Beach, CA
Friday
March 27, 2009, 8am & 2pm
California State University,
Long Beach

Seattle, WA
Sunday
March 29, 2009, 2pm
Washington Park
Arboretum

Portland, OR
Saturday
March 31, 2009, 6pm
Portland Japanese Garden
Pavilion

Seattle Presentation

2-4 pm Sunday, March 29, 2009

Graham Visitors Center, Washington Park Arboretum

2300 Arboretum Dr. E., Seattle, WA 98112

Free admission (up to first 80 persons)

Optional Guided tour of the Seattle Japanese Garden to precede the presentation is offered at 12:15 PM

(The participants must purchase tickets at the door ($5))

Reservations required by March 24 to culture@cgjapansea.org

Information: (206) 682-9107 x134

Shiro Nakane

*Landscape Architect
Nakane Garden Research and Landscape Consultant
Co.*

Makoto Suzuki

*Professor, Chair,
Department of Landscape
Architecture Science
Tokyo University of Agriculture*

Shiro Nakane is one of the foremost authorities on the Japanese Garden, his keen insights and studies have taken him around the world to some of the most respected institutions and firms concerned with landscape architecture.

Makoto Suzuki is the Chair of the Department of Landscape Architecture Science at the world-renowned Tokyo University of Agriculture. He is currently the Chef Editor for the Works of Japanese Landscape Architecture Journal for 2010.

The Veranda is the space between man and nature, between structure and garden, between here and there. It is the space that lingers in-between, the transition that pulls us into both worlds. The Japanese Garden is a cultural phenomenon that understands this space between man and nature which heightens the experience of a true viewing garden.

This program will feature professional insight and knowledge that promises to take the audience to a new level of understanding as they lift the veil from over the Japanese Garden.

The program is presented by the Japan Foundation in cooperation with: the Consulate-General of Japan, Seattle; Department of Landscape Architecture, University of Washington; Japanese Garden Advisory Council